Core Products

When you're manufacturing a component that requires gears or splines, you need a gear supplier you can trust. After all, by the time your parts are ready for the gear or spline operation, you've got plenty of time and money invested as well as delivery dates to meet. You can't afford mistakes or delays at this stage in the manufacturing process. You need your parts manufactured to print, on time, and at a competitive price. At Rubicon Gear, we've been in the gear and spline service business for more than 35 years. Let us earn your trust, just as we've done with hundreds of valued customers ranging from small job shops to divisions of large, multinational Fortune 500 corporations.

Quick Turn-Around

The average lead-time for our gear and spline manufacturing is 5-to-7 days. We clearly understand that time is money, and so we always maintain the available capacity to provide the quickest lead-times in the industry.

Service Capabilities

We offer a wide range of gear and spline manufacturing services including numerous specialty services that have never been replicated.
